Eleven Vie for MSC Ugly Men

SPRING CARNIVAL by Bob Johnson

A Fortune teller, a musical comedy program, a faculty dunker, and several other painless ways to kill the weekend will be under the "Big Top" of the Lamkin Gymnasium at the annual Alpha Phi Omega Spring Carnival, April 14.

Featuring a talent-studded variety show as its climax, the carnival is scheduled to get under way at 8 o'clock. In the "main arena" will be a boardwalk of acts and side-shows put on by twelve campus organizations.

Frustrated students may relieve their pent-up emotions at the I. S. O. faculty dunker starring such notables as Mr. Bensusan and Dean Koerble. Prizes for extraordinary dexterity will be awarded at the M-Club freethrow contest, the Phi Mu cakewalk, the ASA ring-a-leg, the Phi Lam bowling contest, and the GSS ball throw. Car-less students with destructive tendencies may beat on a car with a sledge hammer in the Phi Sig booth. The Sig Taus will hold a slave auction. Competition for the Western Union will be offered by the Tri Sig's telegraph, offering instant communication throughout the Gym. As previously mentioned, the TKE's will have a musical comedy program, and the SNEA fortune teller will predict the somewhat uncertain futures of MSC students.

The money spent in each event will count as votes for that organization's Ugly Man. All the money earned in both the Ugly Man contest and the Carnival will be given to the Student Loan fund to be matched on a one-to-nine basis by the federal government. Bill Brandt is chairman of the carnival. Ron Hestand is in charge of the variety show.

UGLY MEN

Polls for Student and Faculty Ugly Men voting will be open from 9 to 4 today, Thursday, and Friday in the Bearcat Den according to chairman Don Miller.

Students may vote by placing a few shekels in the ballot box of their favorite "glamorous boy". Stuffing the ballot box is not illegal—indeed it is encouraged. Vote as often as you like and as you like them. Contributions to the Ugly Men plus the proceeds of the Carnival will be given to the Student Loan Fund.

Alcoholism Poses Problems

An estimated 2,000,000 alcoholics regularly are employed by business and industry, according to the National Council on Alcoholism. Most of them are between 35 and 50, and have been on the payroll for over 10 years.

It has been computed that industry loses one billion dollars per year because of alcoholism, and the problem is said to be growing.

Very, very few problem drinkers are of the skid row variety. Of this nation's 5,000,000 alcoholics, only three per cent are in the final stages of alcoholism. An even smaller percentage of the 2,000,000 alcoholics who work for a living are in this category.

The problem drinker has not progressed so far that he gets the "shakes" or the D. T.'s (delirium tremens). But he's past the stage of week-end benders and occasional hangovers. He's an early or middle stage alcoholic. He's reached the point where he cannot control his drinking. He is well on the road to chronic alcoholism.

Why does he drink? It's probably a combination of things—social pressures, emotional problems, and perhaps even a physical make-up that makes him susceptible to alcohol.

An alcoholic can never drink normally. He must either give up drinking entirely . . . or progressively go downhill. But since he cannot help himself, he needs guidance.

Of course, turning an alcoholic into a non-alcoholic entails a long, grueling struggle. But not only will industry benefit. Though industry loses $1,000,000,000 a year directly because of alcoholism, society at large loses more than a billion a year. And the cost of a single human disaster, a single broken family, is not easily reckoned in dollars and cents.

Where Is This Super Patriot?

The following article was released through the ACP news service. Do You Agree?

(ACP)—So what's wrong with superpatriotism anyway? We've heard a lot of criticism lately about super patriots and their ideas about America.

Why all the hullaballo?

Critics evidently imply excessive patriotism to an unnecessary degree, according to the characteristics of their remarks. We haven't seen any such form around.

Maybe we've missed it but we don't believe so.

Superpatriotism is something that in all practicality does not exist in the United States today.

The American public is too interested in the Green Bay Packers, Lawrence Welk, the Twist and their bank accounts to become fired up about the realistic present and future of America.

Superpatriotism is not a quality of which to be ashamed. It is not a sinister label as "Red" or "Nazi" or "fellow traveller." It is in fact the exact reverse.

Camus Seeks Way of Life

The Plague: Albert Camus

In this novel Camus passionately, seriously, searched for a true way of life, a morality. The setting is a time of stress when a plague has struck the city of Oran, Algeria.

The citizens ask the question: "Why did this happen?"

The priest's answer is that it is God's punishment for their sins.

But the doctor, seeing young children suffer horribly and die, cannot accept this. He sees no plan or guidance in the world, only absurdity.

"What am I to do?" Camus's answer, through the doctor, is one for all men in all situations.

He feels that though one can know but little he must attempt to alleviate suffering. In a world which seems so bad for men, one must try to better it for them.

Sonnet on a Long Lecture

Time moves on and still he talks,
Not noticing the clock's swift hands.
He talks and fiddles with his chalk
And lectures, leaning on the stand.
Lunch draws nigh and on he goes,
We see no logical end in sight.
All stomachs growl and in the throes
Of hunger, we bemoan our plight.
Now there's the bell; we close our books;
But wait! His mouth is open still.
Our faces take on anxious looks,
Resigning our fate with strongest will.
Never, I say, no never again
Will I take his class at 11:10

Take Time to Think

Take Time To Think as you take the wheel,
You're controlling a monster of rubber and steel.

It has power to spare, brutality to kill,
With a touch of your hand, it obeys your will.

Take Time To Think as you step on the gas,
And veer from your lane when making a pass.
Will the road ahead seal your fate?
As you try to hurry so you won't be late.

Take Time To Think as you round a curve,
And into the wrong lane carelessly swerve.
The life of the driver coming your way,
Could end forever on this luckless day.

Take Time To Think as a school you pass,
There are kids out playing, not in class.
Don't take a chance, they'll clear the way,
Please let them live another day.

The Stroller

Students remember last semester's notorious 70 per cent group (those that received "pinkies") and resign themselves to the fact that they, too, will become one of the deficient in the near future. Sitting back in the nearest chair, gently puffing a fag, they plan for the week-end party.

The party? Well, in the spring, as we all know, a young man's fancy turns to P. E. 55, or something along this line. In his drive for higher education, he finds that much field-type research is necessary. Helping in their research, in the ratio of approximately one-to-one, is a very cooperative group, known only as girls. These aides fill the requirements needed by the researchers: at least freshman standing, ability to adjust to the situation, ample homework left undone, appreciation of nature, etc. . . Any qualifiers?

It seems that there will be a large group of such researchers congregating on the 102 as they get ready for their strenuous spring schedule.

In a few short weeks (one week before finals) the lament will be: "I haven't had time to really give this course a try" or "I've had so much to do lately, maybe I can slide by."

ONE of the best descriptions heard lately came from the tongue of one of our doctors on campus. Observing "twisters" at a recent dance, he remarked, "They remind me of courting prairie chickens!"

Before his dusty, over-burdened desk, The Stroller thus calmly smiles, sighs, and then quickly gets back to the work at hand. . . Say, does anyone know a four letter word that starts with "L" that means "surface"? . . .

Chalk Talk . . . Bob Cobb

SWEEPING BY PERU in an easy fashion, the Bearcat tennis team inaugurated their season by posting a decisive, one-sided win over the Peru Bobcats, April 3. The 'Cat netmen will begin defense of their MIAA championship April 18, on the NWMSC home court.

Peru was also the scene of a diamond double-header the same day. Luck was not with the Bearcats in the horse-hide sport, as they dropped both ends of the doubleheader to the Bobcats, 6-5 and 6-1.

The Bearcats opened their home baseball season Saturday, April 7, against the team from Mankato, Minnesota. Which brings us to the question, "Why isn't there more student interest in collegiate baseball at NWMSC?"

The game is the same as the big-league sport; the players wear similar uniforms, there are four bases, nine players etc. So why isn't there more student following in the diamond sport? The attendance at these games has always been meager.

Bill Veeck of the White Sox increased attendance by hiring midget players and inventing an exploding scoreboard. Charley Finley aroused interest in the Kansas City A's with a nightly fireworks display.

Sad to say, NWMSC is lacking in the above facilities; perhaps the best way to increase student enthusiasm for baseball is with the bat and ball. A winning team always draws followers.

Still speaking of baseball, we have discovered another misled soul who picks the Cardinals to cop the National League pennant. Our choice was not based entirely upon sentimentality, and we are still sticking to the original selection.

We also predict:

1. the Washington Senators will be first in war, first in peace, and last in the American League;

2. the Kansas City A's will finish in the American Association.

Women are wiser than men because they know less and understand more.

'Cats Split With Mankato

Jim Sanders pitched the Northwest State Bearcat baseball team to its first victory of the 1962 season Saturday on the Bearcat diamond as the Bearcats and the Mankato, Minn., team split a doubleheader.

The Minnesotans took the opener 2-0 and the Bearcats the finale 3-1.

Steve Croley and Ron Brumley combined to pitch a 1-hitter in the opener for the Bearcats but Mankato capitalized on five Maryville errors in the top of the fourth to score two unearned runs and gain their win in the opener.

Sanders was in complete control during the second game as he scattered five hits, issued no walks and struck out eight to lead the Bearcats to victory.

The 'Cats scored in the first as Jim Jackson, MSC shortstop, grounded a single through the middle, moved to second on Bernie Ricono's long out to center and scored as second baseman Dick Clark ripped a long single to right field.

Jackson opened the Bearcat third with a 350-foot home run to the left center field road to boost the 'Cats to a 2-0 lead.

Ricono immediately walked, moved to second on Clark's fly ball and scored as first baseman Arnie Anderson lined a single to center field completing the Bearcat scoring.

Mankato scored their lone run in the top of the seventh via two singles and a Maryville error. Sanders struck out two pinchhitters to end the game.

The Bearcats will host the William Jewell Cardinals on the Bearcat diamond Tuesday Apr. 10 with the first pitch at 1:30.

Bill Ludwig and Ron Brumley will start on the hill for Maryville, with Gary Holmes behind the plate in the first game and Jack Tipton catching the second game.
